Modern Slavery: An Investigation by Y9

Millions of men, women and children are trapped into slavery. They work in factories, on farms and in the homes of the well off. They don't get paid much and they have no legal rights, no security and are often abused.

In Year 9 we have looked at the themes of globalisation and its links to modern day slavery.

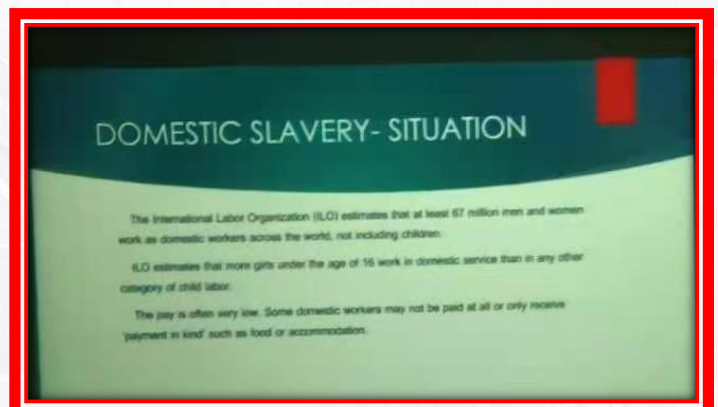

Companies like Nike, H&M and Chanel have all been accused of using modern day slaves as free or cheap labour. Workers ...many women and children ...are paid very little for 14-hour days. This keeps wages low and profits high.

Year 9 carried out case studies, each group had one type of modern-day slavery.

Domestic slavery
Trafficking
Child labour
Bonded labour

The students made presentations in the class and Mr. Hasell and Ms. Arlene were very impressed. Well done!

The Literary Magazine Club

11th of November, 1918. A date which commemorates the end of a brutal war of suffering and sacrifice. A war which culminated in the deaths of millions. On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month we remember the soldiers that never set foot in their homes again. This month's issue includes a tribute to the sacrifices these men and women made through a poem by Alyssa (Y7), book review by Sophia (Y9), and other wonderful photos and articles.

The November issue of 'Out of the Blue' showcases some marvellous black and white photos through the art gallery. Thank you to Joanne, Cici and Lucia for organising this showcase of students' skills and thank you to the talented artists who sent in their superb art-work.

This month has included some exciting events and trips from NBIS' student council, and the Travel and Tourism Class in year 12 (organised by Ashmi, Joanne, Addie and Jason). This issue includes coverage of NBIS' lock in, by Chayse and Tithi, and coverage of the Y11-12 Travel and Tourism trip by Joanne. This release also includes a word puzzle, put together by Francesca.

Out of the Blue would also like to congratulate our joint MVW, Chayse(Y8) and Tithi (Y7)! Tithi's article was beautifully written, and Chayse has provided the magazine with many wonderful photos. Well done Tithi and Chayse!

We hope you enjoy our issue!

Debate Club Coverage

On the first day of debate club, all the students gathered in Mr. Tkaczewski's classroom for our first official meeting. When the clock struck 3:45, we officially began the Debate Club's first meeting.

Everyone introduced themselves, and we got to know each other. We said our names, talked about why we joined the club, and our favourite series. After each and every one of us presented, we got seated back to our desks.

And so it began. Mr Tkaczewski explained styles and parts of debates, and the rules we needed to follow. We will be following "Michael's Mace Style", which is an adapted Mace debate style.

We then decided to start with a light-hearted but quite intense question: "is a salad a sandwich?" We formed teams, brainstormed ideas, and began debating.

The anti team mostly focused on the importance of structure and how to define a sandwich, whereas the pro team focused on our societal expectations of sandwiches. However, by the second meeting opinions were challenged, and some even changed to the other side.

Within a blink of an eye the meeting had already ended. We'll see what happens next time!
